‘Huge Step Forward’: Illinois Inches Closer On Battery Storage, Solar Goals

First procurement generates excitement for future, despite falling below target

Maggie Dougherty Capitol News Illinois

For Illinois to meet its ambitious decarbonization goals, the state’s energy grid will need more battery storage to make use of solar and wind power when the sun doesn’t shine and wind doesn’t blow.

State regulators took the first major step last month toward bringing new energy storage online, a key component of legislation that took effect in June.

The results of the first battery power procurement auction mean another 600 megawatts of new utility-scale energy storage projects will come online in Illinois by 2030 — roughly enough to power half a million homes, or the equivalent of what a single coal or natural gas plant generates.

That’s over four times the 141 megawatts of utility-scale battery storage currently installed in the state, according to the Solar Energy Industries Association.

But it’s just over half of what regulators sought to procure coming into the process.

Despite that, renewable energy advocates are celebrating the progress, with more procurements to follow as the state looks to secure a minimum of 3,000 megawatts by the end of 2030.

“The technology is already here and being developed as we speak,” said Brett Sproul, Illinois policy advocacy lead at Advanced Energy United, a national industry association representing renewable energy and storage providers.

“Despite not hitting the initial procurement target, the 600 megawatts of storage, regardless, in and of itself, is a huge step forward for Illinois, and definitely a really great success for affordability and reliability in the state,” he added.

Regional discrepancies

The summer procurement event was the first to come after Gov. JB Pritzker signed the Clean and Reliable Grid Affordability Act, or CRGA, into law earlier this year. It was conducted by the Illinois Power Agency, an independent agency created by lawmakers to manage energy procurement plans for the state.

The event targeted 1,038 MW of energy storage projects — 450 MW for the Midcontinent Independent System Operator, or MISO, territory in central and southern Illinois, and 588 MW for PJM Interconnection in the northern Illinois ComEd territory.

Daytripping
Henry Vilas Zoo

Charles Herbst

In 1904, prominent Wisconsinite and politician, William Vilas, along with his wife Anna, donated fifty acres to the City of Madison to be used as a public park in honor of their deceased son, Henry Vilas. A stipulation of the gift was that admission to the park must remain free. The Henry Vilas Zoo, established in 1911, is located in that park. The zoo is owned by Dane County, and hosts over 750,000 guests annually.

The Vilas Zoo is accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums. Only about 10 percent of US zoos have that distinction. The zoo is one of only nine accredited zoos with free admission. There is also free parking.

Animal science is evolving. The Vilas Zoo has a partnership with the staff of the School of Veterinary Medicine at University of Wisconsin—Madison. This gives the animals access to high-quality medical care and gives the school, students, and veterinarians an opportunity to study and interact with animals that they would ordinarily not encounter.

The focus of a zoo has completely changed. Today, zoos have fewer animals, and the emphasis has shifted to conservation. Back in the day, it was common to see animals chained up and in steel cages. Often, visitors were encouraged to feed peanuts or marshmallows to the elephants or monkeys, with little concern for the welfare of the animals. While it may have seemed like fun, modern sensibilities have prevailed and professional dieticians make sure that animals are given a healthy diet instead. In addition, each animal is provided with daily enrichment activities. It turns out that the big cats love old, stinky perfumes.

Badger

As this space recently discussed, Olbrich Gardens treats Madisonians and their visitors to flora. With 90 species spread over 28 acres, the zoo is a chance to concentrate on the fauna. While the zoo is perhaps not as encyclopedic as some larger zoos, visitors are treated to the familiar assortment of lions, tigers, orangutans, bears, giraffes, and many others, including, of course, badgers. It wouldn’t be Madison without badgers!

The results exceeded the goal for MISO, securing 520 MW total from four projects. PJM came in below target, with 80 MW secured through one project.

Despite the PJM shortfall, experts familiar with the results say they should not be read as a failure — or as indicating major inherent differences between the two territories.

Industry experts said they believed the IPA wanted to get the new procurement process right before eventually broadening the scope. The agency was required to conduct the initial procurement within rigid rules as dictated by statute, but it will have more flexibility under future procurements in 2027 and 2028 and will seek stakeholder feedback this fall to improve the process.

James Gignac, Midwest policy director at the Union of Concerned Scientists, said the strict parameters in the initial round created challenges for developers in the PJM territory.

PJM has long struggled to connect new power generation to its grid, resulting in long delays for new energy projects to come online. Those projects can only stay in the queue for so long before requests time out, and the timing of the procurement event coincided with several major projects in the PJM queue expiring, according to industry insiders.

"My sense is that we just had a mismatch between the commercial operation date this procurement was seeking, and the status of project development in the PJM queue," Gignac said.

Those developers can reapply in future cycles, at which time the financial incentives contained within CRGA will be in full effect.

Andrew Linhares, director of Midwest state affairs for the Solar Energy Industries Association, or SEIA, said the second procurement will be more revealing.

"Those will be the projects that are reacting to the passage of this landmark law, and that'll really tell us the breadth and the number of interested developers and the appetite for these projects," Linhares said.

Looking forward

Linhares said another factor will also likely lead to greater interest: The first procurement accepted only standalone storage projects; the next may allow projects that pair storage with solar or wind projects.

"I think that the paired solar and storage market is really aggressive and optimistic for the future for Illinois," he said.

A recent report from SEIA and data analytics firm Wood Mackenzie identified combined solar and storage as the fastest emerging source of energy in the U.S., accounting for 70% of all new capacity added to the grid in the first half of 2026.

That power, the report estimates, is enough to operate over 50 million homes, more than one-third of all U.S. households.

An integrated resource planning process, also established under CRGA, is set to kick off with an initial plan submitted by the IPA and other regulatory agencies this November.

That will give regulators the opportunity to assess the progress of energy storage programs and determine if additional procurements will be needed.

Residential scale

Residential solar projects are also on the rise in the state, with new consumer-facing projects designed to lower energy bills and add capacity to the grid.

For example, rooftop solar and battery company SOLRITE Energy entered the Illinois market last month, made possible by the state's "virtual power plant" program that was included in CRGA.

That program allows homes and businesses with solar panels or wind turbines to pool energy, acting "virtually" like a power plant despite not physically existing as one.

The company installs its solar panels and home batteries for ComEd and Ameren customers at no up-front cost. Households pay monthly bills at a fixed rate and the energy from SOLRITE's network can be dispatched back to the grid during periods of high demand.

SOLRITE's goal is to install 500-1,000 paired solar-storage systems in Illinois by the end of the year and a minimum of 5,000 in 2027, according to its CEO Regan George.

Renewable energy advocates say these types of residential programs, along with the IPA's utility-scale procurements, are exactly what was envisioned when lawmakers passed CRGA.

"It's exciting to see real life projects and programs being implemented as a result of the legislature's leadership," Union of Concerned Scientists director Gignac said. "Implementation is not an easy process, but there's a lot of good people working on it."

Candidate Letter

Will Trump's Top Ally in Illinois, Darin LaHood, Face the Press and Constituents?

The president has launched a double-pronged attack against his allies and his coverage on television. Number one, he banned several media outlets from the White House for what he called "unfavorable coverage," threatening that more might soon find themselves ousted as well.

And according to the Wall Street Journal, Trump also threw a behind-the-scenes tantrum, blaming his allies in Congress for not going on TV enough and singing his praises.

That raises a question for the people of Illinois' 16th Congressional District: Where is Darin LaHood in all of this?

As Trump's 2020 Illinois campaign co-chair who supported Trump in 2016 and 2024 as well, will LaHood explain how he believes the Trump administration's policies have made the country stronger?

At the start of Trump's second term, LaHood said the new administration would bring a "more safe and more prosperous future" and pledged to work with Trump to deliver on his agenda. Will he now publicly defend that record and explain what he believes those policies have delivered for the people of the 16th District? The people of the district should judge Mr. LaHood by what he does, not what he says.

Will Darin LaHood ever, before this election, defend the positions he has taken in support of this President in an open, public town hall? At his last town hall held in April of 2017, hundreds of constituents showed up with important questions and concerns, including about healthcare, taxes, and President Trump himself. His constituents have waited more than nine years for another chance to get a straight answer from their representative. The people of the 16th district deserve better.

Paul Nolley, Democratic Candidate for the 16th Congressional District

The badgers, Wisconsin's state animal and University of Wisconsin mascot, are exhibited as part of a recently created Wisconsin Heritage Trail. In the wild, badgers typically inhabit open grasslands, have short, powerful legs, and huge front claws allowing them to burrow and dig for their prey. In addition to their distinctive white striped pattern on a black triangular head, badgers typically have black, white, and brown fur, are about 25 inches long and weigh about 15-20 pounds. That weight can expand to over 30 pounds in the autumn. Badgers do not hibernate but become less active in winter. They are closely related to otters and ferrets.

Although the badger is native to Wisconsin, the Wisconsin badger nickname traces its roots to the early lead-ore (galena) miners of Southwest Wisconsin. Miners dug temporary shelters in the hillsides during winter that resembled the burrowing technique of a badger. The zoo's badger exhibit explains the nickname.

Another fairly recent addition is the Arctic Passage Exhibit. This large area houses the zoo's polar bears and harbor seals. There are currently 35 polar bears in accredited zoos, and Madison has 3 of them. Polar bears are always a crowd pleaser, and the Vilas bears do not disappoint. Only a pane of heavy glass separates visitors from these amazing creatures. They can be viewed both underwater and on land. The exhibit also has a restaurant.

A children's zoo features goats, which may be hand fed. Other animals in the children's zoo include red pandas, meerkats, aardvarks, and flamingos.

Work is ongoing at the zoo to build new facilities. Currently, the giraffes are on loan to a zoo in Green Bay, as the Vilas Zoo is getting ready to build a new state-of-the-art $21 million building called Edge of Africa.

With a renewed focus on animal welfare, the zoo remains a pleasant stroll for people of all ages and a chance to encounter many animals in an entertaining as well as educational way.

The Henry Vilas Zoo is located at 702 South Randall Avenue, Madison. It is open all year, daily from 9:30 to 5:00. The zoo is on the northern shore of Lake Wingra and is southwest of Downtown, a few blocks west of Park Street. The nearest bus, Route B, is a 12-minute walk to Park Street.

Illinois to Receive Up To $768M in Meta Settlement Over Teen Social Media Addiction

Attorney General Kwame Raoul one of many state AGs who investigated, sued Meta

Hannah Meisel Capitol News Illinois

Illinois will receive up to $768 million from a multi-state $17.1 billion settlement with social media giant Meta, the parent company of Facebook and Instagram — the culmination of a three-year legal battle brought by state attorneys general.

Nearly three dozen AGs, including Illinois Attorney General Kwame Raoul, sued Meta in 2023 over teen social media addiction, following a two-year investigation into decisions made by company executives to encourage more engagement on its social media platforms. The lawsuits alleged engineers greenlit more addictive features like infinite scroll and autoplay despite internal company research showing the harms of compulsive social media use on teens' brains, in addition to misleading the public about the safety of its platforms.

Details of the settlement

Though the settlement still faces court approval, the $17.1 billion agreed to is one of the largest state consumer protection settlements in history. Illinois will receive up to $768 million over a 10-year period, which will be used for youth mental health and online safety training programs. In similar multi-state settlements with tobacco and opioid manufacturers, Illinois has used its share of settlement funds to stand up addiction recovery programs.

But the Meta settlement goes beyond money; the company agreed to strengthen its existing age verification systems for users in addition to a host of limitations for those between 13 and 18.

Meta debuted Instagram "teen accounts" nearly two years ago, which automatically placed privacy and content restrictions on users under 16 years, in addition to gentle reminders to get off the app after 60 minutes and a default "sleep mode," which silences notifications between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

However, age verification isn't iron-clad, and some limitations are easily turned off. Under the terms of the settlement, teens will have two-hour daily limits on Instagram and Facebook in addition to mandatory pauses after 15 minutes of continuous use, and again after 60 and 90 minutes.

The settlement will also supercharge "sleep mode" to a full-on nighttime block restricting teens' access to content feeds from 12 a.m. to 6 a.m. Muted notifications will be extended from "sleep mode" into weekdays from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. during the school year.

Meta will also implement stronger safeguards to block teens from accessing content related to eating disorders, suicide and other self-harm, in addition to restricting teens from access to so-called "beauty filters" and "like" counts.

The settlement also dictates that for the first five years of the agreement, an independent auditor will review Meta's implementation of the changes and their effectiveness.

New Illinois law

Some of the settlement's terms were already signed into law in Illinois earlier this summer, though the Children's Social Media Safety Act isn't set to take effect until 2028. The new law, pushed by Gov. JB Pritzker this spring, prohibits social media platforms from sending notifications to minors between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

But Illinois' law also goes further, requiring social media platforms to confirm a user's age through the operating system of the device — like a smartphone — on which they are using the account. It also prohibits companies from using a minor's data to curate the content they are served on an app, a tactic deployed by nearly all social media platforms to make scrolling their feeds more addictive.

Under the law, violators face civil penalties of up to $2,500 for each child for unintentional violations and up to $7,500 per child for intentional violations.

"Notably, even Meta now says other platforms like TikTok and YouTube should be held to the same standard — proof that these protections are necessary, not optional, and that no company should be trusted to make that call on its own," Gong-Gershowitz told Capitol News Illinois.

Property in this County, other than farmland and coal, is to be assessed at a 33.33% median level of assessment, based on the fair cash value of the property. You may check the accuracy of your assessment by dividing your assessment by the median level of assessment. The resulting value should be the estimated fair cash value of your property. If the resulting value is greater than the estimated fair cash value of your property, you may be over assessed. If the resulting value is less that the fair cash value of your property, you may be under assessed. You may appeal your assessment to the Board of Review.

If you believe your property's fair cash value is incorrect or the assessed valuation is not uniform with other comparable properties in the same neighborhood, the following steps should be taken:

1.) Contact your Township Assessor to review your assessment.

2.) If not satisfied with the assessor review, taxpayers may file a complaint with the Boone County Board of Review. Complaint forms, instructions, and the rules and procedures of the Board of Review can be found at boonecountyil.gov or by calling the Supervisor of Assessments Office at 815-544-2958

3.) The final filing deadline for your County is generally 30 days from this publication date. After this date the board is prohibited by law from accepting assessment complaints for properties in the County. For more information on complaint deadlines, call the Supervisor of Assessments Office at 815-544-2958 or visit boonecountyil.gov

Your property may be eligible for homestead exemptions, which can reduce your property's taxable assessment. For more information on homestead exemptions, call 815-544-2958 or visit boonecountyil.gov

Your property tax bill will be calculated as follows:

Final equalized value-exemptions=taxable assessment
Taxable assessment X current tax rate = total tax bill

All equalized assessed valuations are subject to further equalization and revision by the Boone County Board of Review as well as equalization by the Illinois Department of Revenue. A complete list of assessments for this County for the current assessment year, except for those assessments that were changed solely by equalization as noted above, is as follows:
